

Phillip Rothwell CFRE
Director of Development
Warwick Independent Schools Foundation

Phillip has worked in development for 13 years, first in higher education at the University of Warwick and London Business School, and more recently in schools. In 2011 he set up Warwick School's first sustainable development function, introduced a new bursary programme, and successfully completed a capital fundraising appeal for a new school hall. In 2017, Phillip's role expanded to serve the whole school foundation of Warwick School and King's High School.

Phillip is currently trustee and Deputy Chair of IDPE. He holds the accreditation of Certified Fund Raising Executive (CFRE) and maintains an active interest in furthering best practice in philanthropy and relationship development across the education sector. He is currently studying for an MBA with Durham University Business School.

Leading schools' development