

IDPE and ISBA publish GDPR: A Practical Guide for Schools

Working in association with ISBA and Farrer & Co, IDPE is delighted to announce the publication of GDPR: A Practical Guide for Schools which provides sector guidance and templates* on all aspects of GDPR, tailored to the specific needs of schools. Following the publication of the ICO's definitive guidance on consent this week, GDPR: A Practical Guide for Schools now includes a specific section on development and alumni relations (please refer to pages 33 - 51).

GDPR: A Practical Guide for Schools is a living document and IDPE will continue to work with ISBA and Farrer & Co to update this vital resource as further guidance becomes available from the ICO and in response to members' feedback.

More resources for schools

IDPE will also be developing more resources for schools over the coming weeks, including examples of:

- Legitimate Interest Assessments (LIAs)
- Consent forms for development/alumni relations
- Data sharing agreements for schools and alumni associations/societies

We encourage you to send us examples of your school's consent forms, privacy notices or other materials you have developed in response to GDPR, so we can share these with members in the resource area of our website. If you have examples you would be willing to share, please send these to info@idpe.org.uk

*Please note, as many of the template policies are for the whole school rather than specifically for development/alumni relations, these are available in the ISBA library. Please ask your bursar if you require login details to the ISBA library.
