

Andrew Gordon-Brown

Headmaster and Principal of the Foundation

Kingswood School, Bath

In 2003, after a dozen years in banking and finance Andrew switched careers, leaving an award-winning equity research team at JP Morgan Chase to become a teacher at Radley College where he taught Economics and coached rowing and rugby. Moving up to Lancashire in 2007 with Harriet and their three children, Andrew took up the post of Deputy Headmaster at Stonyhurst College. In 2013 Andrew was appointed Headmaster of Truro School, Cornwall's largest independent school of 1000+ pupils. Andrew has a Master of Science degree from Oxford University and is a qualified chartered accountant. He is a keen sportsman, representing South Africa in the 1992 Olympic Games and Oxford University in the 1994 Boat Race. In September 2020, Andrew took up his current position at Kingswood School, Bath as Headmaster and Principal of the Foundation. He loves music and will be joining the Kingswood Choral Society when the chance arises.
