

Daniel Fluskey

Director of Policy and Communications

Institute of Fundraising

Daniel is Director of Policy and Communications and leads the Institute's policy development and research work, keeping up to date with member priorities, promoting innovation on fundraising and working with key stakeholders, including civil servants and politicians, to make sure fundraising and giving are key priorities for the current and future governments.

