

Susan Beck

Director of External Relations

The Royal Grammar School, Newcastle

Susan Beck is a proud fundraiser with over 25 years of experience in leading income generation and charity marketing.

Since 2018, she has been the Director of External Relations at the Royal Grammar School Newcastle, where she oversees the school's ambitious marketing, communications, engagement and development programme.

Susan has played a key role in articulating and implementing the school's vision to be a driver of social mobility in the North East, through almost 500 bursaries to date, and a partnership programme now reaching 10,000 children across 100 partner schools each year.

Passionate about the potential of the independent schools' sector, Susan is also Senior Consultant with RSAcademics.

Throughout her career, Susan has held Director, Interim Director and Senior Consultancy roles across some of the UK's largest fundraising charities, curating multi-million-pound appeals and personally working with donors to achieve impact through their six and seven figure gifts.

Susan has a Master's degree in Charity Marketing and Fundraising.
