Jamie Robertson

Managing Director

the social archive

Jamie Robertson is Managing Director of the social archive, having spent his career in operations and delivery roles across numerous IT and software companies he has a strong track record in delivering solutions to public sector and education clients. With extensive experience building and managing teams and services, Jamie is passionate about delivering platforms that offer maximum benefits to their users.