

Dan Keyworth

Director of Customer Success, International Markets Group

Blackbaud

Dan is responsible for leading customer success across international markets at Blackbaud, overseeing the EMEA, Canada and Asia-Pacific customer success teams, with a focus on helping universities, colleges, schools, foundations, cultural institutions, healthcare organisations and charities around the world towards better utilising social good technology, data and strategies to build a better world. Prior to joining Blackbaud in 2014, Dan was part of the Development Office Executive Team at the University of Oxford, with responsibility for collegiate-wide systems, regular giving, legacies fundraising, relationship management protocols and broader cross-university collaboration. Dan is also a Trustee and Vice-Chair of Future First Global, a charity which works globally with governments, schools and NGOs to support the growth of networks for young people worldwide, and an advisor to Sky School, a new global high school for refugees.
