

Jo Beckett

Joint CEO

Institute of Development Professionals in Education (IDPE)

Jo is a qualified Executive Coach and Mentor accredited at Masters level 7 with the Institute of Leadership and Management. She has more than 25 years' senior management and business development experience in education and business. She is a Psychologist, certified to teach resilience skills.

Most of the people Jo helps have little time to think strategically and value talking about their work in a confidential space. Jo believes that everyone has the ability to solve 99% of problems themselves: they just need the right coach to ask the right questions.

Jo began her career in media for ITV, Channel 4 and the Capital Radio group and for the past decade has worked in the school sector for the Institute of Development Professionals in Education (IDPE). Jo has personally led and implemented IDPE's income generation strategy, successfully raising funds and establishing sector wide partnerships to re - invest in IDPE services to support members.
