

Jonathan Snicker

Head of Philanthropy

University of Exeter

Jonathan joined the University of Exeter as Head of Philanthropy in January 2018. He began his career lecturing in Politics at Oxford University before moving into the world of philanthropic fundraising. He built up the fundraising function at Exeter College, Oxford before setting up the development function at St John's College.

He has also been involved in business and served as director of a fintech start up based in London and Dublin, established his own consultancy prior to joining Graham-Pelton. He served as interim CEO at Dublin City University Educational Trust in 2016, and was also Senior Counsel at the Royal United Services Institute.

As a consultant, Jonathan has worked with a variety of schools, including Herts & Essex High School and the British School of Milan.

Jonathan is a trustee of YMCA Exeter, which supports young persons who are homeless or at risk of homelessness.
