

Rachel Crowdy

School Partnerships Manager

ImpactEd

Rachel taught Science and was Head of Biology for almost ten years in inner London secondary schools and an international school in Paris. Since leaving the classroom, Rachel has been the School Partnerships Manager at ImpactEd, where she works with a wide range of schools and school groups to support them design, implement and interpret reliable and practical impact evaluations and assessments. Rachel holds a Masters in Science Communication and is passionate about the role of schools in enhancing student aspirations and outcomes.