

Alexandra Hyde

Head of Philanthropy

Eton College

Alexandra joined Eton as Head of Philanthropy in April 2025 and brings 15 years of experience in US higher education fundraising and campaign consulting. Prior to Eton, Alexandra served as Senior Director of Development, Gift Planning where she oversaw legacy giving programs at multiple institutions. Her areas of expertise include, but are not limited to, major gifts, planned giving, campaign management, and gifts of complex assets.

Alexandra studied Anthropology and Art History at Bowdoin College and spent a year at the University of Edinburgh as an undergraduate. She has maintained strong connections in Scotland and credits her year abroad as the beginning of her love-affair with the United Kingdom.

Beyond work, Alexandra enjoys writing, travelling, surfing, swimming, and spending time with her family on the coast of Maine. She is also an avid foodie and pastry connoisseur.
